Humanoid robots don't belong in homes.

They're awkward, intrusive, and don't fit.

why?

A humanoid robot roaming your home is basically an expensive, slow, unpredictable guest. It's not reliable, not private, and potentially dangerous.

70% of Americans are already not comfortable with hiring in-home (human) help, even when they can afford it.

Why would a robotic stranger be any different?

It won't.

So what belongs in a home?

Look around your home.

Furniture and appliances belong.

Things that have a place, serve a purpose,
and stay out of the way until needed.

Meet Lume

A pair of robotic lamps that can be retrofitted to any bed frame.

When needed, the lamps transform in to robotic arms.

When not in use, they function as lamps.

Robotic intelligence + furniture design + appliance function

Laundry folding in 3 steps.

1. Dump your clean laundry on the bed.
2. The bedside lamps transform into robotic arms.
3. Folding begins.
Automatically.

Yes. We have a demo.

Lume is a new category of home robotics.

Today: it folds laundry.

Tomorrow: it turns your bed into a robotic hub with apps like massages and physical exams.

Where Are We So Far

- MVP complete w/ autonomous towel folding

16 Month Runway

- 600k Team Salaries
- 400k MVP Build
- 250k Operations, Marketing
- 100k Design Patent
- 150k Buffer

Major Milestones

- 0-6 Months: Human-level Folding
- 7-12 Months: 25+ Onsite Pilots
- 12-16 Months: Secure LOIs, Raise Seed

No new devices. No roaming machines in your home.
Just intelligent furniture that quietly helps with everyday tasks.
